

AKE- History

“It was the morning of July 25, 1970, when our Study Group was born. We discovered afterwards that at that moment, the constellation Virgo, with its star Spica, was rising just above the horizon. Near this was Jupiter. We felt that this constellation was a good symbol for our work. In mythology, the constellation Virgo bestows the blessing of growth. It has been told of the Greek goddess Demeter that she searched for her daughter Persephone, who had been kidnapped by Hades, with the star Spica used as a torch. In Egyptian astrology, Spica is the star that marks the ear of wheat.”

These lines were written by the founder Dr. Udo Renzenbrink (1913-1994) on the 10th anniversary of the AKE.

The ear of grain is the symbol and logo of the AKE; it shows our relationship to our staple food: grain. The different grains have accompanied the AKE from the beginning. They have been a topic for research and have recaptured their rightful place in the kitchen.

July 25, 1970 Study Group for Nutritional Research (Arbeitskreis für Ernährungsforschung: AKE) is established.

1970-1977 In the first 7 years, the AKE was set up in a small apartment in Bad Liebenzell-Unterlengenhardt in Nordschwarzwald (northern black forest). Udo Renzenbrink held lectures and conducted several research projects. The discoveries were implemented by preparing a lunch in the small kitchen in the apartment. Margret Koos cooked the first new grain dishes, later Barbara Hübner. Recipes for millet, barley, rye and other grains were developed.

1977 The “Haus der Ernährung” (House of Nutrition) was opened. At this time, the environmental protection and holistic nutrition movements spurred an interest in holistic cooking classes and yearly meetings.

Installation of a laboratory to study foodstuffs using the capillary dynamolysis method (Steigbildmethode).

1977-90 Weekly cooking classes, classes in dietetics and healthy eating have been offered over the course of 15 years.

1992 Classes are cancelled due to dwindling interest.

1994 The director of the AKE, Dr. Udo Renzenbrink, passes away at the age of 80.

Beginning in 1996 Relocation of the Study Group’s activities to the Rhein-Main area on the initiative of Dr. Petra Kühne.

Research in nutrition becomes emphasized in addition to lectures. The House of Nutrition is sold.

1998 The AKE moves to Bad Vilbel near Frankfurt/Main. Dr. Petra Kühne becomes the director of the organization.

2002 Projects on nutrition based on textual research of sheep and goat milk.

2004 Installation of a small laboratory to use the capillary dynamolysis method, archiving of the Steigbilder from the last several decades.

2005 Research projects on sugar, sweeteners and vegetarianism.

2006 Specialized one day seminars offered on current issues.

2007 Advanced education course in Anthroposophic Nutrition in 10 modules with a certificate of completion.

2008 Start of the second course in Anthroposophic Nutrition.

2009/10 The third course in Anthroposophic Nutrition with a certificate of completion.

2010 40 years AKE

2011.2013 the fourth und fith course in Anthroposophic Nutrition with a certificate of completion

2013 Research project on oats and his health claim

2.4.2013 100. Birthday of Udo Renzenbrink, celebration in Berlin

2014 Start with the project: nuts in nutrition

2014-15 The sixth course in Anthroposophic Nutrition with a certificate of completion

2015 A new course in infant nutrition and development, start of seventh course in Anthroposophic Nutrition